13 of 13 people found the following review helpful. Well writtenBy k8tydidThe text is direct, to the point, very well laid out, and actually applies to the subject. The chapters arent too long or too short and the book isnt stocked full of irrelevant text. Most AHIMA writers usually suffer from "I need to fill up space, so I am going fill entire pages that references other irrelevant chapters, and let you know what type of wax is used on the floor." However, this author did a good job.11 of 11 people found the following review helpful. Quite informativeBy J.A.This is what I'm using to review for ICD-10. The book is very comprehensive. I would have given it five stars if it also has rationales for the exercises and not just the case studies.3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Great BookBy Lady BugThis is a very good book but the only thing I did not like is it does not give you practice exercises for chapters 21-33. There are case studies in the back of the book with answers which is very helpful. But, I do not know why the author decided not to include case studies for chapters 21-33. Other than that, I would highly recommend purchasing this book. If you take the time to read this book in its entirety and do the exercises, you will not need to take all these ICD-10 courses that are out here I gave this book 4 stars because they did not give you practice exercises with the answers for chapters 21-33

The ICD-10-CM Coding Handbook is the only guide published in collaboration with the Central Office of the American Hospital Association. The Central Office is the official industry body that prepares the AHA Coding Clinic. The Handbook helps coders understand the principles behind the classification system so they can apply the official coding advice found in the Coding Manual. Academic and in-service instructors can easily arrange course outlines and study exercises around Handbook chapters to train new and experienced coders. Each Handbook contains more than 100 exercises and review questions plus, hundreds of case summary exercises that are based on real patient records.
