Geoffrey Meads, John Ashcroft, Hugh Barr, Rosalind Scott, Andrea Wild : The Case for Interprofessional Collaboration: In Health and Social Care before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Case for Interprofessional Collaboration: In Health and Social Care:

The Case for Interprofessional Collaboration recognises and explores the premium that modern health systems place on closer working relationships. Each chapter adopts a consistent format and a clear framework for professional relationships, considering those with the same profession, other professions, new partners, policy actors, the public and with patients. Section one, Policy into Practice, considers a series of analytical models which provide a contemporary account of collaboration theory, including global developments. The second section of the book, Practice into Policy, examines real-life drivers for behavioural change. The third section evaluates personal learning and learning together.

- * Highlights the barriers to collaboration, how to overcome them, and the resulting dividends
- * Enlivens health policy with a view to transformative adaptations in the workplace
- * Draws on international examples of effective practice for local application
